Local Young Democrats To Meet Friday

Charles H Wilson, of Crewe To Be Guest Of Local Club

There will be a call meeting of the Young Democratic Club of Appomattox county, at the court house tomorrow, Friday August 21, at 8 P. M.

Charles H. Wilson, state vice-president of the Young Democratic Clubs for the Fourth Congressional District, will attend the meeting.

The state convention of Young Democratic Clubs will be held in Roanoke, at Hotel Roanoke, September 11 and 12. Rulings require all delegates and each club's membership strength to be on record at state headquarters at least ten days prior to the state convention. Therefore local enrollment must be made at once. Last year the Appomattox club had 59 members and sent one of the largest delegations attending the state convention in Richmond.

A call for memberships will be sounded at tomorrow's meeting and delegates to the state convention elected. Each club is entitled to one vote in the state convention for each ten paid up members of record at state headquarters. Dues are $1 per year and the age limit: 18 to 45. Membership cards will be given out tomorrow.

Due to the fact that this is a presidential election year, considerable interest is attached to the activities of the Young Democratic Clubs. In this state the clubs made a heavy contribution to the campaign to elect President Roosevelt.

Relief Funds

Richmond, Aug. 19 (Special) With anticipated increases in calls for funds for assistance next winter, government authorities are preparing funds to meet expense of administering relief in Virginia.

The last general assembly made available to the cities and counties a state relief fund of $2,500,000, the localities to match this fund to the extent of 60 per cent.

Already 72 counties and 29 cities have applied for funds totaling [illegible] under the 1936 state relief act.

PensionCommission

Authorized by the general assembly to investigate the pension problem of old age pensions in Virginia, a commission of seven members has been appointed and will report its findings to the assembly of 1938.

Governor Peery named to the commission Dr. Charles J. Smith, of Roanoke College and C. H. Morrisett, Lieutenant Governor Price named state senators Aubrey Weaver and Benjamin Mason Ashton Dowell named E. B. Moore, of Berryville and Horace Edwards, of Richmond and L. Gordon White of Scottsville.

Dairying Club Farmers

The conviction that 4-H Club work lays the foundation for sound citizenship and intelligent farming influenced a New York City bank executive to contribute $50 to the Agricultural Committee of the State Bankers Association, to further 4-H Club activities in the state. "I am convinced that the work is so worthy, and is being so well handled that it should interest those who believe in building sound citizenship, as well as intelligent farming for the future," he said.

Unusual prominence was given this year to agriculture's work by the Tennessee Bankers Association. The Agricultural Committee report revealed a definite co-operation between bankers and extension workers "Key bankers and county agents have been in close contact than ever before - it says.

Georgia bankers have given both moral and financial backing to a Marketing Project sponsored by the Extension Service of the College of Agriculture, and activities the past year showed significant results The phases of the Marketing program emphasized in the year's work are. The retail-urb market; roadside marketing; improved lamous marketing (suited to the locality); bartering (exchange of commodities or services with neighbors); standardized canned products for sale prepared in homes or canning centers.

Points To Poor Appearance of Cemetery Here

Appomattox, Virginia, August 19, 1936

Editor, Times-Virginian,

Dear Sir,

I paused in my leisurely walk through a cemetery. The upper part of the monument before me was an unusually beautiful piece of polished granite. I began to part bushes and tear away vines, for this lovely stone was almost hidden from view by a very unlovely profusion of undergrowth. Finally, I made my way to this inscription: "Gone but not forgotten." Not forgotten! A strange contrast there was between the condition of the grave and the thought embodied in the inscription. The date on the monument was 1931. Just five short years ago, I thought and I wondered why we so soon forget.

A traveling man and his friend were traveling through the western part of North Carolina. As they approached a small city in the "savvy man's territory he spoke to his friend of the beautiful little cemetery lying just at the edge of this city.

"Well then," remarked his friend, "it is here that you place some of your best orders."

"It is," replied the salesman, "but how did you know?"

"Show me a town whose cemetery is well kept," he answered, "and I'll show you a town whose businesses are wide awake and whose people are filled with civic pride."

Aren't you glad the salesman and his friend didn't drive through our town Liberty cemetery and judge from our town and us by its condition? Have you ever taken a visiting friend to our cemetery to the grave of some loved one or friend and blushed with shame at the condition perhaps of that very grave or certainly of the lots near by? True, there are a few well-kept lots, but so very few. Have we forgotten? Have we no civic pride? Was not our love for those who rest there so strong that we want to care for their graves as long as we shall live and if possible provide for their upkeep when we too have passed on? Some of us do try to keep our lots in good condition but even in this we are hindered by those who are thoughtless or careless. There are no receptacles for withered flowers and often they are thrown out through the weight of where they may fall and remain in unsightly piles. Yucca plants grow everywhere and those who like the white spikes of bloom which these plants bear do not trouble to break each spike before the seeds are formed. Hence, hundreds of young Yucca plants spring up where they are not wanted and where they keep other flowers from growing. Let us substitute Yucca some of the many flowers just as beautiful but without its unlovely nature.

Our darling boy is sleeping there and where he rests is the most sacred spot on earth to us. When he was scarcely two years old and heard us say we were going to the cemetery, he always ran into the garden to pick a flower for the grave of a neighborhood whom he had never seen. Has your grandmother's grave a flower on it, or has it been covered by weeds and underbrush?

What is the solution to the problem of a cemetery kept in such an unlovely way as our city of the dead over on the hill is kept? Yes, a well kept cemetery is the solution but just what shall we do now to put ours in that condition?

It is true there seems to be a peacefulness resting over the graves of our loved ones in a church yard, but after the church has been moved away I believe we should place the cemetery in the hands of an association of citizens chosen from our community. By these citizens the necessary plans would be made and carried out for making and keeping our cemetery a beautiful spot. To see this actually done we must have a leader, someone who really wants to see our cemetery made lovely and kept that way.

Let us have done with merely thinking and saying these things should be done. You who are interested, whose loved ones rest here, won't you do something about it? You who are capable, won't you take the necessary first steps?

Others will support and follow where you lead.

Let us do it now, "lest we forget."

Yours respectfully,
Mrs. Amy Glenn.

WARNING

Warning to property owners of this and aujoining counties! It has come to my attention from a number of sources which are reliable, that some one or combination of men are covering this p ay of men are covering this section selling lightning rods and making a price for the job but in some cases after the work has been done they ask nearly double the amount originally priced, and most of the folks have felt they should pay, and if they kick the account is settled on the basis of the first price. I welcome all straight business deals, but this thing looks like a racket and I felt the property owners who do not know about this system should be warned to insist on definite written contracts before the work is done.

Payments Are Made Here

Payments totaling $10,568 were made in Appomattox county by the Resettlement Administration frdm July 1, 1935 to June 26, 1936, according to information received by John Golleher, state director for the National Emergency Council.

This total of $10,568 represented loans to 50 persons.

An additional activity of the Resettlement Administration, that of farm debt adjustments, showed that in Appomattox county 21 cases had been adjusted through May 1936, involving an original indebtedness of $17,734.00 with resultant savings of $237.00. In addition to the saving through adjustment there were 16 cases where loans had been refunded or where a reduction of interest rate had been effected. Taxes paid in Appomattox as a result of this adjustment amounted to $152.

Want State Cop At Buckingham

The board of supervisors of Buckingham county has asked the state highway department to take into the secondary road system and to maintain, the road around the county house square at Buckingham.

The Buckingham board has also adopted a resolution asking John Q. Rhodes, state motor vehicle commissioner, to station a state highway policeman at Buckingham.

Performance of Farmers Being Checked Here

County Agent Hudgins Asks The Farmers To Help With Check-Up

The work of checking performance of farmers operating under the 1937 Agricultural Conservation program is under way in Appomattox county, R. B. Hudgins, county agent announces.

Performance will be checked by local supervisors who have been selected in the county and approved by the state office. Schools of instruction have been held in order to train the supervisors for the work.

Mr. Hudgins pointed out that the work of checking performance this year is a bigger job than has been undertaken in connection with any of the commodity programs during the past three years. To save expense, plans have been made to use measurements made in 1934 and 1935 wherever possible, and to estimate the acreage of soil-conserving crops with the help of farmers as permitted under the instructions for checking performance. Also, every effort is being made to reduce expenses in other ways.

Mr. Hudgins stated that payments to farmers and for administration expenses are both made from funds appropriated in connection with the Agricultural Conservation program and that the expenses of administering the program will necessarily reflect the total payments which can be made to the farmers. Since the checking of performance is the most important part of the program, cooperation by farmers in supplying complete and accurate information to supervisors will be of great help in keeping down expenses.

Each farmer will be asked to assist the supervisor who visits his farm in preparing a report of the 1936 farming operations. The report will include a sketch of the farm showing fields, the soil-building practices carried out, the acreage of the crops grown in the fields, and the names of the persons sharing in the crops and practices. Farmers can save much time by preparing prior to the supervisor's visit to the farm a map in rough sketch form showing this information or by noting this information on any map they may have of the farm.

For soil-building practices such as the seeding of soil-conserving crops or the turning under of green manure crops, the use of ground limestone or superphosphate in connection with soil-conserving crops, farmers will be asked to supply records, or to show otherwise that they have carried out the practices.

AMERICAN LEGION TO MEET THIS MONTH

Important changes in the constitution and by-laws will be considered at the 18th annual convention of the American Legion of Virginia to be held August 23-26 at Roanoke. The convention is expected to attract approximately 3,000 delegates.

At least four candidates for the office of department commander will be given the convention with endorsements from their respective posts. They are: Major George B. Collings, of Newport News; Carleton Penn, of Roanoke; Dr. William E. Peters, of Appalachia, and C. W. Crush, of Christiansburg. Frank Rennie Jr., of Richmond is commander now.

Among the proposals pending are a system foy life memberships and reduction of the term of office of district commanders from two years to one. A third proposal would provide that a member of the executive committee and a department vice commander be chosen from the Negro ranks of the legion.

Mrs. C. W. Carter

Mrs. Peggy Carter, 63, wife of C. W. Carter, died at her home at the Old Court House Tuesday night after a prolonged illness.

Funeral services will be conducted at Liberty Baptist church this afternoon, by the Rev. W. M. Thompson. Burial will be in Liberty cemetery.

Mrs. Carter is survived by her husband and nine children: Harry D., Warren D., Berkley S., Leonard W. and Jaifred Carter, of Appomattox; Mrs. Bendigo Morris and Mrs. Willie Wright, of Lynchburg; Mrs. Jennings Lowry, of Appomattox; and Mrs. William Davis, of Pamplin; and by many grandchildren.

Mrs. Carter was a Christian mother and a devout church member and a bore her suffering with fortitude and faith. She will be greatly missed and we extend our sympathy to the bereaved family.
